

The Oriental Institute

of the Academy of Sciences
of the Czech Republic

Early Medieval China Workshop
To be held in Prague
On November 10-11, 2017
On the premises of the Oriental Institute, The Czech Academy of Sciences

The workshop is a part of a broader initiative aimed at establishing a research group of mainly Europe-based, researchers with a common interest in Early Medieval China, which might stimulate research into this period of Chinese history and contribute to the founding of a specialized “field” with connected communities pursuing the same research interests. Participants of the workshop will present the outcomes of their individual research ranging from archaeology and art history, political and institutional history, historiography and geography to philosophy and literature. It is hoped that the workshop will help to draw attention to this fascinating period of Chinese history and will initiate a fruitful discussion on research topics which might be shared by Early Medieval China scholars Europe-wide.

Participants:

Jörg Henning Hüsemann (Ostasiatisches Institut, Universität Leipzig)

Giulia Baccini (Dipartimento di Studi sull'Asia, University Ca' Foscari Venezia)

Maria Kobzeva (Department of Asian Languages and Cultures, University of Wisconsin)

Zhang Fan (Institute for the Study of the Asian World, University of New York)

Zornica Kirkova (Ostasienabteilung, Staatsbibliothek zu Berlin-Preußischer Kulturbesitz)

Julia Escher (Asien-Orient-Institut, Universität Zurich)

Nataša Vampelj Suhadolnik (Department of Asian and African Studies, University of Ljubljana)

Monique Nagel-Angermann (Institut für Sinologie und Ostasienkunde, Universität Münster)

Annette Kieser (Institut für Sinologie und Ostasienkunde, Universität Münster)

Andreas Janousch (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid)

Alexis Lycas (Max-Planck-Institut für Wissenschaftsgeschichte, Berlin)

Jakub Otčenášek (Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies, Charles University)

Jakub Hrubý (Oriental Institute, Czech Academy of Sciences)

Dušan Vávra (Center for Chinese Studies, Masaryk University)

Olga Lomová (Department of the Far East, Charles University)